Foreword

We wish to extend to you and all admirers of good live stock a cordial invitation to be with us at our Thirty-first Annual Sale on June 30.

Purebred cattle are selling at lower prices at this writing than they have been known to bring since we had our first sale. But, the better the cattle the better the bargain they are to the purchaser. That is, the best ones are now not bringing enough premium over the common kind to justify the purchase of less royally bred cattle in any good herd.

It is a wonderful time to invest in purebred cattle. The cow and calf proposition seems to be the only safe method for the cornbelt to get its feeders. Whether from a purebred standpoint, or simply for a commercial herd, it is an opportune time to buy a few purebred heifers or a better bull than you are now using.

Just a word as to the offering. The bulls are the improving sort, bred well enough to be used in any herd. They are not in show condition but have been well grown and are in ideal shape to carry on.

The female part of the offering consists of two-year-old and yearling heifers, and, except a very few, all are selling safe in calf. Three of the older heifers already have their calves, and several more of them will have calves before fall. The heifers that are safely settled in calf have been mostly bred to Supreme Champion and Torchbearer, two bulls herein pictured. Five of them are served by Supreme Client, a wonderful dark roan and a son of Maxwalton Baron, which is being retained in the herd. About six younger ones are selling open. All are high class females.

Come to the sale and buy a few of these heifers while the price is to the buyer's advantage. It will not always be this way. The man who adds a few of these well bred cattle to his herd now and takes reasonable care of them, will find himself reaping large profits in the next few years.
